Doctor Qi Lei of Affiliated Hospital of Nantong University Share China’s experience of epidemic control with Italy

By Li Bo

On 7 April, mayor of Siena Italy made a special appointment to meet Qi Lei and showed his gratitude on social network website. The mayor said on the website, ‘doctor Qi Lei from affiliated hospital of Nantong University came to municipal government and donated various types of personal protective equipment (gloves and masks). We thank him for his work in coronavirus control and prevention. Qi Lei stays in Siena in the present, his wife stays in Nantong.’

‘It is my second time to come to Siena. I have deep feelings for Siena. As the only Chinese doctor who stays in Siena now, I will do my best to help Siena citizens, medical workers and patients of Siena University hospital.’ Qi Lei said when he met the mayor on 7 April.

41 year old Qi Lei is a deputy director in emergency department of Affiliated Hospital of Nantong University. In June 2018, in the progress of postgraduate study in internal medicine (Respiratory diseases) in Nanjing Medical School, he won a chance to study in Siena University

Hospital in Italy for his excellent academic performance. In 2019, after he graduated, he won a chance to study in Siena University Hospital in Italy from Jiangsu Commission of Health again. In December 2019, Qi Lei reached Italy for the second time.

As the epidemic is spreading fast in Italy, in Siena University Hospital where Qi Lei studies, the intensive care units are overloaded. Having no choice, the hospital uses the whole emergency building to treat patients.

During the period, Qi Lei has recommended the latest Chinese epidemic control guide to Siena University Hospital for several times, shared the successful epidemic control experiences of China with staff of Siena University Hospital, introduced measures such as home isolation, hand disinfection, wearing masks outside and keeping of social distance to policemen on duty and neighbors.

Entrepreneur's talk

Board Chairman of Yuexing group Ding Zuo Hong: Returned to hometown, participates in new development

39 years ago, I learnt carpentry in my hometown Rugao and started my career. In that year I left my hometown to start a business in south Jiangsu. I went to Changzhou by a ferry.

As a Nantong person, a Nantong merchant, I hope that I can try my best to lead Yuexing group to make greater contributions to development of my hometown.

Yuexing group has a history of 32 years. We have not forgot our root and source. Yuexing keeps manufacture part where it started in Nantong. The products are exported to 68 countries and areas in the world. Yuexing furniture which has been presented on important international stages such as world exposition and China International Import Expo was ‘made in Nantong’.

In the present Yuexing group will put the largest urban complex project in north Jiangsu in Nantong. It is a decision of logical investment, also a choice of love for hometown. We will invest 13 billion Yuan in Nantong central innovation district to build an upgraded ‘Global Harbor’ project of total floor area of 1.43 million square meters.

As the chairman of Jiangsu Chamber of Commerce in Shanghai I will further lead Jiangsu merchants who are in Shanghai in knowing Nantong, taking Nantong seriously and investing Nantong.
