

A wide-angle photograph of a large, formal conference room. A long, dark wooden conference table runs the length of the room, with numerous participants seated along both sides. Each participant has a nameplate in front of them. The room features large windows on the left wall, allowing natural light to enter. The ceiling is high and decorated with ornate, multi-tiered chandeliers. At the far end of the room, a large projection screen displays a presentation with text in Chinese. The overall atmosphere is professional and formal.